

LIGHTHOUSE BOTTLES 3.4%

The brewing team developed Lighthouse from the pages of Adnams coveted brewing books and use original Champion Pale Ale recipe as its foundation. That beer scooped multiple awards many from 1922 to 1980 and used ingredients that could still get today, including Fuggles and goldings hops. Southwold's Lighthouse is a listed building and can be seen from the brewery window, and up to 18 nautical miles at sea. The concentric circles on the bottle lable represent its light.

Light by name and light by nature at 3.4%, Lighthouse is a refreshing and approachable pale ale. It was developed from our original Champion Pale Ale recipe and is therefore brimming with all the characteristics you would expect to find in an authentic English pale ale.
